

SEND ME A DOUBLE RAINBOW

BY MARY ELLEN ROONEY

I'm seeing black and white these days
Nothing catches my eye
I stumble around in a haze
When will I see blue skies?

Orphaned sister without archive
So much of life to share
I need his colors to survive
Kaleidoscope somewhere

Refrain

Black and white days
Black and white nights
Send me a double rainbow
I need a rainbow now

Outline, shadow and my own mind
Traces through dark landscapes
Where toneless music leads the blind
When will my world take shape?

He's behind the veil now
Sun-lit gold trumpet call
He took flight amid colored kites
Beyond the water fall

Black and white days
Black and white nights
Send me a double rainbow
I need a rainbow now

Copyright mary ellen rooney all rights reserved

